Masthead by Hannah M. Goettel, age 13

COVER STORY

10 Tributes to Dad

From a father who opened his hearts to children with special needs, to a father who helped his wife cope with impending blindness, to a father who was willing to play the part of an Assyrian king, these stories will touch you.

FEATURES

5 Bringing up a Scientist
Science writer and homeschool mom Rebecca Hirsch helps you find scientific inquiry in everyday things.

8 Raising a Bully-Proof Child
Some kids just seem to attract bullies, even when they're homeschooled. Letitia Berkey shares strategies that helped her son.

23 Life After the Geography Bee
Homeschooled teen Eric Goldfischer shares how he turned his love for geography into a geography group for younger kids. Get inspired!

24 Poetry Out Loud
Dianne Settino reflects on her daughter's decision to compete in a national poetry recitation contest, on how to fit in these kinds of unique experiences, and on making room for bliss...

IN EVERY ISSUE

2 Letter from the Editor
4 Notebook
16 Math by Kids
17 The Backpack
21 Kids & Grads Did It
22 Competition Information
33 Qualified Evaluators
35 Catalog
36 Calendar

COLUMNS

9 First Steps: Finding the Right Support
Patricia Richman writes about finding the right support for her family of three young children.

26 Peter's Story: Part 2
Nancy Emerson shares how the discovery of her son's learning disability sent her on a quest for answers and led her to make changes.

28 Graduation and Beyond: Looking Back... and Forward
A Graduate's mom reflects on "CLEPping," choosing a gap year, dealing with special needs, and the closeness between her sons.

29 Student Diary: CLEP Tests
Homeschooled teen Megan Laughlin writes about her experience taking CLEP tests.

30 Technology Watch: Blogging
Waste of time, or wave of the future? Mary Sellers reflects on the ways that blogging can help homeschoolers communicate.

IN SHORT

6 World Water Day
On September 18, 2007, monitor the condition of bodies of water in your neighborhood!

7 Help Collect Weather Data
What better way to learn about meteorology than to contribute to the Community Collaborative Rain, Hail and Snow Network?

27 Family Performs at White House
The Linton family formed a musical ensemble that has gone on to perform in the state capitol and in the White House!

36 Homeschooling Snapshots
Molly Richman Inspektor draws scenes from her experiences as a homeschooled kid!